Phone still ringing despite union strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 185,000 telephone workers walked out in a wage dispute Thursday in their first nationwide strike in 21 years, but there appeared little initial interruption of phone service.

"The strike is on," said Joseph A. Beirne, president of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers, as he urged another 500,000 telephone employes to refuse to cross the strikers' picket lines.

Beirne then joined a picket line at the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. of Washington for about an hour.

Officials of the Bell Telephone System and its parent firm, American Telephone & Telegraph Co., said they expect to maintain almost normal service as supervisors took over many jobs.

But Beirne said if management officials think they can run the huge national telephone network for long without the striking union members, "They must be taking something somewhat stronger than LSD."

Management officials said there might be some initial problems with person-to-person long-distance calls and other services requiring an operator's assistance.

Most heavily affected immediately will be orders for new phones and transfers of phones because the strikers include 23,000 telephone installers who work for the Bell manufacturing subsidiary, Western Electric Co.

Beirne said telephone credit

Joseph A. Beirne

card users also will be seriously affected because credit calls require an operator. "Eighty to 85 per cent of all long distance calls are charged," Beirne said.

The telephone installers unit of the union is on strike in about 40 states. In addition strikers include Bell system switchboard operators, repairmen, testers, linemen, clerks and other workers in 15 states and the District of Columbia.

Other Bell System contracts covering another 116,000 Communications Workers in 16 additional states expire at various times within the next few weeks.

The union has rejected company pay increase offers of 7.5 per cent over 18 months. Bell officials said the union is demanding 10.5 per cent. Installers now average $3.27 per hour and other telephone workers $2.79 hourly.

"We have been, and remain fluid—willing to talk, willing to consider, willing to negotiate," Beirne said at a news conference.

"The position of the CWA is not frozen," he said.

Beirne said talks between Western Electric and union officials are continuing in New York.

Federal mediator Walter Maggiolo said "We are still talking to the parties and will continue."

Bullet lands in youth's lap

SOUTH CANAAN — Michael Robinson, 9, of Waymart, RD 2, escaped injury Thursday when a stray bullet entered the South Canaan School and landed on the youth's lap.

The bullet came from a gun being used by Edward Dolph, 28, of Lake Ariel, who was hunting woodchucks one mile south of the school, Honesdale State Police reported.

The bullet entered a window, ricocheting off a book on the floor and landed on the youth's lap, police said.

There was no injury, Trooper Gerald Getz, investigating officer, said.

S-burg office may be picketed

STROUDSBURG — "Chances are very good" that the Stroudsburg Bell Telephone Company office will be picketed 6 a.m. today by striking members of the Communications Workers of America, according to Walter Gantz, business manager for the Scranton District CWA unit.

Gantz said that orders were received to post pickets at telephone company installations this morning.

If CWA members picket the local office today, it will mean that the 65 members of the local Federation of Telephone Company Employes will stay off their jobs.

Bruce Bird, president of the local FTWP unit, said earlier that their union constitution prohibits members from crossing picket lines.

It was not determined whether the 60 traffic operator union members in Stroudsburg would cross the picket lines. Indications are that they would not cross.

If the picket lines are honored, it would mean also that a total 150 local telephone company employes could be affected, placing the burden on telephone service on management.

E. B. Chura, manager of the Stroudsburg office, yesterday said that there has been no effect so far.

Gantz said that there are no permanent ACWA members at the local office, but added CWA members are always at the local office.

The Communications Workers primarily install office equipment and travel from one telephone office to another.

Blonde private gets discharge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pretty Marine Pvt. Mary Elizabeth Burns, who was court-martialed after she quit wearing her uniform, was discharged from the Corps Thursday.

A Marine spokesman said Miss Burns, 21, of Grand Junction, Colo., was "separated from military service at the convenience of the government."

Committee investigating S. Vietnam VP

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee is investigating a report that the CIA once removed Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam as commanding officer of a secret sabotage operation because he used it as a front for opium smuggling.

The report was made available to the Associated Press by the Senate subcommittee on foreign aid expenditures, headed by Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska.

Joseph Lippman, staff director of the subcommittee, said the report was considered highly reliable, but refused permission to name or in any way identify its source.

The 1963-64 sabotage operation, called Operation Hayfift, "was flying Vietnam agents into North Vietnam for the purpose of sabotage such as blowing up railroads and bridges," the report said.

Rockefeller wants new federalism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York won sustained applause from the nation's editors Thursday after calling for a 10-year, $150-billion program to meet the needs of the tension-torn cities.

Rockefeller told the American Society of Newspaper Editors at its annual convention that American cities "have been breeding slums faster than any other western nation."

He called for "the new federalism" in which the government would become a sparkplug and coordinator rather than a monolithic power center, and would lend its credit to the raising of vast development sums from the private sector.

He was introduced by Turner Catledge, executive editor of the New York Times, who observed that the Times has been urging Rockefeller to change his mind. But Rockefeller hasn't always followed the Times' advice in the past, Catledge added.

U. S. stages top aerial blow of war

SAIGON (AP) — B52s loosed their massive bombing power Thursday on the A Shau Valley, where the North Vietnamese are building up troop and armored strength for a possible lunge at Hue.

The U.S. Command said the eight-engine Stratofortresses had staged their biggest aerial blow of the war in the previous 24 hours, dumping more than 1,500 tons of bombs on the valley 25 miles southwest of the old imperial capital.

One flight concentrated on "tracked vehicles," a military spokesman said. This could mean either tanks or armored personnel carriers.

Accused killer

A handcuffed Henry F. Anderson, 32, of Worcester, Mass., is led into Worcester District Court Thursday where he was ordered held without bail on two counts of murder in the ax-slaying of his foster mother and another woman. Anderson was charged in the slaying of Mrs. Aila Puskula, a teacher at the Thondike School—and Mrs. Maria Putkisto of Holden, Mrs. Puskula's cleaning woman. Authorities say Mrs. Puskula was Anderson's foster mother. (UPI Telephoto)

China questions overture

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin declared Thursday that North Vietnam will conduct peace talks as "a nation that has not been vanquished, that has not been defeated."

"The only way the Vietnamese situation can be solved is to give the Vietnamese the ability to solve problems the way they see fit," the visiting premier said in a television interview.

At the same time, Radio Moscow accused Red China of trying to prevent a peaceful settlement of the war, saying Peking's attitude only helps the United States and the allies in South Vietnam.

The broadcast assailed a commentary Monday by People's Daily, the official Red Chinese newspaper, urging the Communist Vietnamese to keep on fighting. The Daily also called President Johnson's March 31 peace overture "an out and out big fraud."

With North Vietnam and the United States unable so far to agree on a site for preliminary discussions, Washington appeared to be compiling a new list of suggested sites.

A Pakistani government spokesman said the United States has asked if the talks could be held here and "we indicated our agreement."

North Vietnam insists on Phomn Penh, Cambodia, or Warsaw, Poland. Finding neither acceptable, the United States has proposed New Delhi, India; Rangoon, Burma; Vientiane, Laos; and Jarkarta, Indonesia, after Hanoi apparently cold-shouldered Geneva.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant also was continuing discussions with Washington and Hanoi on possible sites.

Kosygin appeared on "Meet the Pakistan Press," a program to be relayed over Pakistan's four television stations.

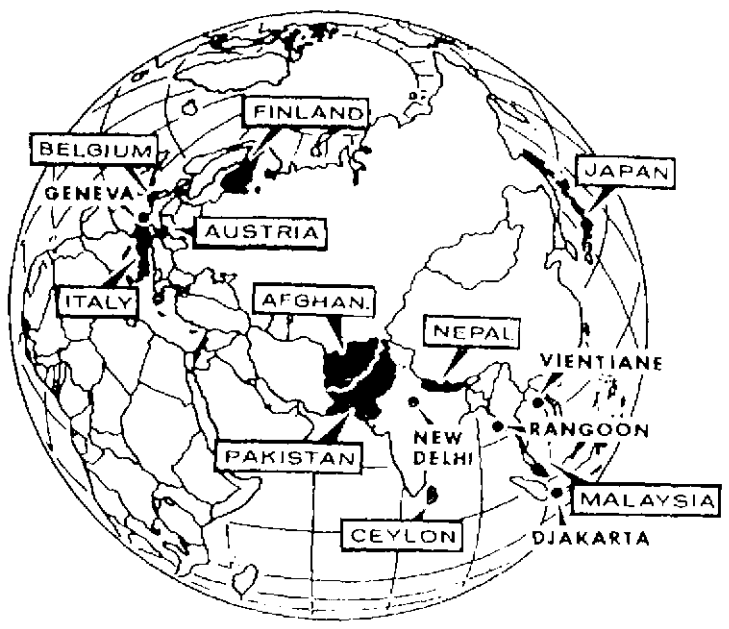
Federal funds still available to Eastburg

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The borough of East Stroudsburg received recertification of its workable program from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, according to a telegram sent to Mayor Thomas Kistler by U.S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney Thursday night.

A workable program is a series of documents submitted to HUD by a municipality showing how it intends to use public and private resources to eliminate slums and blight, and must be submitted annually, Rooney said.

In effect, recertification means that East Stroudsburg remains eligible for various types of federal aid, including urban renewal, public housing, FHA mortgage insurance and re-housing of displaced families, the Congressman said.

U.S. proposed peace conference sites



The U.S. Thursday proposed 10 more possible sites for initial peace contacts with North Vietnam and declared it was "time for a serious and responsive answer from Hanoi. (UPI Telephoto)

High mortgage rates may spur home building

NEW YORK (AP) — Interest rates on new home mortgages are climbing toward 8 per cent in some sections of the country, a nationwide survey shows.

And the cost of an average home has climbed about $2,500 in the past two years, according to a survey by The Associated Press.

Despite the higher costs, the nation's homebuilders expect this to be a good year. Probably, they point out, because people realize prices and interest rates may go even higher.

The industry looks for 1968 to be better than last year. The National Association of Home Builders predicts 1.43 million housing starts this year, up from 1.3 million last year.

But whatever the number of homes built, home buyers will pay more for their mortgage. The chances that mortgages will cost more were increased again Thursday when the Federal Reserve Board in Washington approved another increase in the discount rate.

"In 20 years of banking experience, I never expected to see a 6¾-7 per cent interest rate palatable in this conservative Milwaukee area," said Lowell Klug, vice president of the First Wisconsin National Bank in Milwaukee.

"But, by gosh, people are paying it," he added.

In Atlanta, Ga., C. B. Sandiford, senior vice president of the Federal Savings and Loan Association, said "we have decided to live with 7 per cent, which is pretty high."

The rate has gone to 7½ per cent in cities such as Dallas, Tex., Denver, Colo., Lincoln, Neb., Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore.

In Phoenix, Ariz., John Rhuart of the First National Bank of Arizona says the lending rate "could conceivably go to 8 per cent."

About 2½ years ago, the rate in Birmingham, Ala., was 5½ per cent. Conventional loans now average about 7 per cent, with some going up to 7½.

In Maryland, the state's recently concluded General Assembly passed a bill raising the legal interest rate from 6 to 8 per cent.

Federal interest rate increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board Thursday approved another increase in its discount rate, to 5½ per cent, in a strong tightening of credit throughout the economy.

The action applies to the New York, Philadelphia and Minneapolis Federal Reserve Banks and is effective on Friday.

It was the second increase in the discount rate in little more than a month.

The board raised the rate from 4½ to 5 per cent in mid-March in an attempt to stem the gold crisis which reached its climax in that month.

The board said it took the new action to restrain intensifying inflationary pressure and to strengthen the position of the dollar at home and abroad.

At the same time, the board adopted a new schedule of interest rates banks can pay on large denomination certificates of deposit.

It raised the maximum rate to 6.25 per cent on certificates of $100,000 or more which mature in 180 days or over.

The previous maximum was 5.5 per cent on all maturities over 30 days.

No change was made in maximum rates payable on other types of time and savings deposits.

The other rates are:

For certificates maturing in 30-59 days, 5.5 per cent; for maturities of 60 to 89 days, 5.75 per cent, and for maturities of 90 to 179 days, 6 per cent.

Five board members, including Chairman William McChesney Martin Jr., voted for the action. The other two members were absent and not voting.

The 5½ per cent discount rate is still the highest since just before the 1929 stock market crash when the rate went to 6 per cent.

The highest the rate has ever been was 7 per cent in 1920-21.

This is the rate the Federal Reserve charges commercial banks for money they borrow from the system.

President lists rules for talks

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson said Thursday preliminary talks with North Vietnam must be at a site where other governments involved in the Vietnam war can have representatives which seemed to rule out Warsaw.

The chief executive listed this among four requirements for the discussions to determine whether serious peace negotiations can begin. The other three conditions are similar to those set forth before by the United States.

Hanoi and Washington have been jockeying for more than two weeks in so far fruitless efforts for a site. North Vietnam has suggested Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, or Warsaw, capital of Communist Poland.

Washington objected to Phnom Penh because there is no U.S. diplomatic mission there. It balked at Warsaw because it is not a neutral nation.

Johnson, flying back to his Texas ranch after Pacific policy talks in Honolulu, told a small group of newsmen aboard his plane there are "four things you have to have" at any location for public contacts with Hanoi.

Johnson's announcement seemed virtually to slam the door on Warsaw because the two principal U.S. fighting allies, South Vietnam and South Korea, are not recognized diplomatically by Poland and have no envoys in its capital.

In addition to the condition having to do with South Vietnamese and South Korean contacts, Johnson reiterated that there must be adequate and secure official communications systems; access for news coverage; and that the site must be one in which neither side would enjoy a psychological or propaganda advantage.

The latter point has been the chief U.S. basis for objecting to Warsaw because Communist Poland has been an active supporter of North Vietnam in the current conflict.

While objecting to the only two sites suggested so far by Hanoi, Washington has advanced a half dozen potential sites it would find acceptable.

Thursday, Secretary of State Dean Rusk broadened this list to 15, including several added starters in Asia.

In a Washington news conference, Rusk told reporters that Ceylon, Japan, Afghanistan, Pakistan, Nepal or Malaysia would be acceptable. They joined the earlier Asian list of Laos, India, Burma and Indonesia.

As added European suggestions, he advanced Italy, Belgium, Finland or Austria. Earlier, the United States had listed Switzerland.

In announcing expansion of the list, Rusk noted that there has been no official response from North Vietnam—although there have been semiofficial rejections via the government.

Elusive Galt still hunted

But little more was known publicly about the alleged assassin of the civil rights leader than when his name first arose a week ago. It was learned, however, that a man registered as Eric S. Galt in a Memphis motel a day before King was killed.

Police agencies continued their "no comment" handling of queries—including questions about a newspaper report that the search had spread outside the country, to Mexico or Cuba. And they were silent on any details at all about a man with whom Galt may have conspired in the slaying.

A murder warrant was issued here Wednesday night for the 36-year-old Galt, five hours after the FBI charged him with conspiracy to violate the civil rights of King. The FBI warrant charged him with conspiring with a man "whom he alleged to be his brother."

King was killed by a single bullet the night of April 4 as he leaned over the second-floor railing of a Memphis motel. Police have said the shot was fired from the common bathroom of a low-cost hotel across the street.

The FBI said Galt had used the names of Harvey Lowmyer and John Willard. A man registered as "John Willard" checked into the hotel just three hours before King was killed.

Ivan B. Webb, night desk clerk at the Rebel Motel here, said a man registered there under the name of Eric S. Galt on April 3. Webb said a white Mustang bearing Alabama license plates and Mexican tourist stickers was parked near the room occupied by Galt. A similar car has been impounded in Atlanta, Ga., and the FBI said that car belonged to Galt. A white Mustang is believed to have been the getaway car after the slaying.

The FBI declined comment on the possibility that a man who had checked into another motel April 3 might have been Galt's brother.

Nelson Rockefeller . . . wins poll

Poll indicates state GOP favors Rocky

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pennsylvania candidates for delegate to the Republican national convention favor New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller 2 to 1 over Richard Nixon for the party's presidential nomination, according to a new Associated Press poll.

The AP survey was sent to every GOP contender in Pennsylvania's April 23 primary. There are contests in 15 of the state's 27 districts, plus the 10 at-large delegates already chosen by the state committee headed by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer. At the Miami convention in August, Pennsylvania has 64 delegate votes.

There were 50 responses from the 97 men and women polled.

Of these, 19 named New York's Rockefeller—a still unannounced candidate—as their first choice for president. Nine favored former vice president Nixon.

The rest were scattered: 4 for Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, 3 for Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, 2 each for former Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton and Mayor John Lindsay of New York, and 1 each for Shafer and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the former president.

Good ship New Jersey has compliment of rich gobs

ABOARD THE USS NEW JERSEY (AP)—When the crewmen of the USS New zjersey hit shore, they were carrying a total of about $100,000 in cash from their first pay day aboard the big ship.

Thursday was pay day for the 1,400 enlisted men and 70 officers. They were paid in cash, as required by Navy regulations when pay day is at sea. Ashore, the Navy pays with checks.

To those who know her best—the scattering of crewmen who have served aboard her — the New Jersey is the greatest ship afloat.

"This ship here is one of the best ships ever built," says Rear Adm. J. D. Bulkeley, who once was her executive officer. Bulkeley, as president of the Navy Board of Inspection and Survey, activated for Vietnam war duty, is "very well preserved and in excellent condition" after 10 years in mothballs.

The only man who was on the New Jersey when she was commissioned in 1943, master chief boatswains mate Lyle E. Chastain, thinks she will complete her mission as planned.

"I think this thing (Vietnam) is going to drag on," said the 45-year-old Chastain, of National City, Calif., "She'll do a lot of damage."

State's riot policy one of restraint

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer said Thursday that in handling civil disorders his administration would continue to use only "that force necessary to maintain law and order."

Shafer told a news conference, in response to a question, that he could not endorse a recent statement by Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago that police should "shoot to kill" arsonists and "shoot to maim" looters.

The governor said that in racial rioting, such as occurred last week in Pittsburgh and other major cities across the country, persons who violate the law should be apprehended and prosecuted.

"I could not prescribe such a policy (as Daley's) for Pennsylvania," Shafer said. "We have our own policy...Our policy is one of restraint and containment."

Shafer said the policy proved workable during the Pittsburgh riots, in which State Police and the National Guard helped local authorities to restore order.

"I was very proud of our law enforcement officials and of the majority of citizens of Pittsburgh's Hill district who worked diligently to keep law and order," the governor said.

Shafer blamed the rioting in Pittsburgh on what he termed "the hoodlum element," who, he said, represented a small minority of the district's predominantly Negro residents.

"No rights are advanced by those who trample on the rights of other people," Shafer said. "On the other hand, we in Pennsylvania must be sure everyone has a decent environment in which to live and good employment."

The governor said he was considering keeping the National Guard in Pennsylvania for its summer training, as he did last year, but emphasized that no concrete decision had been made. The decision apparently would depend on the racial situation in the state this summer.

On another subject, Shafer predicted that the voters would approve all five constitutional questions that will appear on the ballot in Tuesday's primary election.

"Samplings in the state indicate an affirmative vote for all five questions," he said. "The vote is not going to be especially big, however, since there is general apathy toward the primary election..."

On other topics:

Nonpublic School Aid — The administration is preparing a bill and hopes to have it ready to submit to the legislature shortly after it returns on April 29 after a 26-day recess.

Revenue — Decreases in the sales, cigarette and corporate net income taxes indicate the state could finish the current fiscal year with an estimated $28 million deficit. The governor said some economy measures might be called for after the April revenue figures are available.

Czech parliament elects liberal

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Parliament elected as its president Thursday a liberal accused by East Germany of playing into the hands of the West. His choice, opposed by orthodox Communists, illuminated a developing second-stage struggle for power in the country.

National Assembly conservatives were able to muster 68 opposition votes against 188 for Josef Smrkovsky after his nomination by the Communist party presidium for leadership of the revitalized National Assembly.

The vote came as district and regional party conferences were called for this weekend. They are being asked in effect whether the Stalinist old guard, led by the ousted president and party are being asked in effect whether the Stalinist old guard, led by the ousted president and party chief, Antonin Novotny should be allowed to hold its seats in the powerful party Central Committee or face immediate removal.

Liberals want to call an extraordinary congress this summer to vote the Novotny faction out of the Central Committee and clear the way for the reforms.

Editors want full riot news

NEW YORK (AP) — Editors in cities hit by summer riots say they are opposed to a code for voluntary restraint in their news coverage.

"Guidelines are impractical and possibly even irresponsible," said one editor responding to a survey.

"I certainly think they do infringe on freedom of information," said another.

The survey was taken by William M. Ware, executive editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, for the Freedom of Information Committee (FOI) of The Associated Press Managing Editors.

In polling editors in cities struck by riots in the past three summers, Ware asked what they had learned from the experience.

"How many other and better techniques than ours were invented?" he asked, referring to his newspaper's experiences in the Hough riots of 1966. "How can the job be done more effectively?"

Ware said he delayed writing the report until the President's National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders had released its findings.

Court clears revision vote

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania Supreme Court Thursday turned down a taxpayers' suit attempting to remove the five constitutional questions from Tuesday's primary ballot.

The court, in a brief opinion, said it was dismissing without prejudice the suit brought by Irvin Stander of Philadelphia and Alexander H. Lindsay of Rt. 1, Freeport.

They originally filed suit in Commonwealth Court Harrisburg. Their lawyer, James Beasley of Philadelphia, brought the case to the state's highest court when Commonwealth court threw it out April 11.

Rows and rows of potatoes reach almost to the horizon on the Albert Frantz farm in Brodheadsville. Frantz and an assistant begin the grueling eight-week task of planting the potatoes. Most of them will be used for potato chips. (Staff Photo by Fred Walter)

Albert Frantz farm

Potato planting no easy task

BRODHEADSVILLE — Planting seed potatoes on the Albert Frantz farm is the start of a six to eight-week planting operation.

More than 200 acres are being cultivated and prepared for five varieties of potatoes of which 95 per cent of the harvest will be marketed for potato chip manufacturers.

The seed potatoes are all trucked in by Frantz from Augusta, Maine, and then are cut by machine, transferred into crates, trucked to the field, and transferred again to a two-row planter.

The planter of this size is more practical and does a better job, said Frantz.

The machine accomplishes several jobs at one time — besides placing the seed cut in the ground at the proper depth and covering it. The seed is also treated with a chemical which will make it immune to any disease for the three month growing period and even if pests start to feed on the plant they would be destroyed.

Frantz said he has successfully used this method for five years. Also the soil surrounding the seed is immediately fertilized to support the first growth of the plant — with fertilizer at 10 parts nitrogen, 10 parts phosphorous and 10 parts potassium (potash).

Pike County relocation

Route 209 hearing date set

MILFORD — A public hearing on the 27-mile relocation of Route 209 will be held 10 a.m. May 16 in the Delaware Township Volunteer Fire Department building, Dingman's Ferry, a State Highway Department official announced Thursday.

The hearing, which was requested by some Pike County officials, will be conducted by attorneys from the State Highway Department's District Four Office, Scranton.

The hearing will be on the multi-million relocation of the highway from Echo Lake to Milford. Emphasis will be placed on the relocation plans through Pike County.

The State Highway Department will enlarge the highway into a four-lane route. The Corps of Engineers meanwhile, will relocate the highway and reconstruct it for two lanes. The enlargement into four lanes is expected to occur concurrently with the Corps of Engineers relocation construction.

State Highway Department officials expect a representative from the Corps of Engineers to attend the hearing.

The hearing will be on the relocation route drawn for the Corps of Engineers which has been accepted by the State Highway Department, but not yet fully approved by the federal government.

Secretary of Highway Robert Bartlett said during a brief press conference in Stroudsburg recently that construction designs are currently underway for the $32.4 million relocation plan.

Bartlett expected the construction design to be complete within several months for the first mile section.

The new route will generally be one and one-half to two miles west of its present location.

A State Highway Department spokesmen said that no questions will actually be answered at the hearing. He explained that attorneys will outline the procedure for the hearing, present the Highway Department plans and then allow persons to state their viewpoints on the highway plan.

The relocated Route 209 will form an easterly boundary for Lehman Township. The new highway will also run through Delaware and Dingman Township and then hit U.S. Route 6 just west of Milford Borough.

The Army Corps of Engineers estimated the relocation to take about 30 months. The State Highway Department seems to differ with this schedule, however and indicated that it might be sooner.

Library displays old books, and currency

NEWFOUNDLAND — Observing National Book Week, and continuing throughout the remainder of the month of April, the Newfoundland Library will display "Old Treasures In Books and In Coins and Paper Money."

Antique, rare and first editions are being shown by the library with many of the books beautifully illustrated. There is a comparative display of children's books, with some well-known works shown in both the old and the more modern forms.

History, fiction, religion and science are all among the subjects in the exhibit of Old Treasures In Books. The arrangement was planned by Cora Lange and Katherine Louser of the book committee on the library board, and will be the first of many monthly exhibitions of specialties at the library.

Colonial currency, the property of Richard Hoober, South Sterling, is also a part of the display, having been placed in a special case which will also be utilized each month for the exhibition of hobbies, collections and articles of special interest.

Hoober is past president of the Philadelphia Coin Society, and is a member of the National Board of the Society of Paper Money Collectors. He is a member of the American Numismatic Society, and is occupied with an extensive project which calls for the listing of all known obsolete notes of all of the states.

He has been awarded the Medal of Merit of the American Numismatic Society and has received seven Health Literary Awards for outstanding contributions through research and writing.

The library is open every Tuesday and Thursday from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Everyone is welcome to view the displays and exhibits. Membership in the library is open to all.

Barrett Republicans cite need for local legislator

CANADENSIS — The need for a representative in the Pennsylvania Assembly from Monroe County was stressed at a meeting of the Barrett Republican Club, Wednesday, by Mrs. James Heckman.

Mrs. Heckman said that East Stroudsburg attorney Edwin Krawitz is the "best vehicle" for giving Monroe County its lost legislative seat.

"Several years ago, we in Monroe County lost our legislative seat due to reapportionment," said Joan Coffman, captain of the Barrett Township Krawitz Citizens Committee.

"Because of his popularity and the vote that we now know that Ed Krawitz will receive in his native Wayne County, he stands an excellent chance of winning this Primary Election," she said.

Mrs. Coffman, speaking for several persons at the meeting, also said that, "We Republicans have not only an obligation to our Republican Party but our recent strength in Monroe County has come from our showing the people that we have met our responsibilities to them — to all of the people."

It was pointed out at the meeting that the Republican Club members have an obligation to bring the legislative seat back to Monroe County.

"If we care to meet our responsibilities, our duty, our pledge to all of the people here in Monroe County, we have to bring this legislative seat back to Monroe County and Ed Krawitz gives us the best vehicle to do this," Mrs. Coffman said.

Serving on the Citizens Committee for Krawitz, in addition to Mrs. Coffman, are Florence Hasensus, John Price, Marion Styk, Eleanor Bristol, Kathy Sengle, Shirley Sengle, Barbara Carlton and Priscilla Kice.

Schools should be given full tax

Schools and education are the hub around which our growing generation revolves. It is then imperative that we obtain the best education possible for our children. The only answer is good, well run schools.

It is with this thought in mind that we ask all divisions of the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg school districts to allow the two schools to take the entire one per cent of an earned income tax that each plans to enact in the near future.

We will be the first to agree that townships and boroughs involved are in need of added revenue and that the money can undoubtedly be put to good use.

However, a locality is only as good as its school system and there is no doubt that both the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg systems are in anything but rosy financial condition at the present time. We feel that the entire one per cent income would put the school systems in sound financial condition and would allow a split in the tax in future years without difficulty.

We believe this to be the best form of taxation under the current setup and feel that it is the first true break given to property owners who have long staggered under an ever-growing load of taxes.

Three-quarter income

It is our contention that the various municipalities could give the entire one per cent tax to the schools the first year as the latter can only actually collect three-quarters of the normal amount, due to the fact that collections will be one-quarter of a year behind the rate that will be used in future years.

If the tax isn't enacted, Stroudsburg may slap as many as 10 to 13 additional mills on property owners, while East Stroudsburg may be forced to levy an additional seven or eight mills.

East Stroudsburg's school board revealed at a meeting Wednesday night that if it would be granted the entire one per cent of the tax for a year it could do one of three things.

It could bring about a reduction of four mills to property owners which totals $92,000. It could do away with the $10 right to work and $10 per capita tax worth $96,000, or it could drop the occupation tax to 80 mills, which totals $106,000.

The board has revealed that its proposed allocation from the state will be $2,000 more than last year and its local tax income will be $30,000 higher than 1967. A full one per cent income from the earned income tax would result in $240,000 or a total of $272,000 more than last year.

The budget increase would be approximately $170,000 and the income surplus would be $102,000. However, all figures would be drastically adjusted with a lesser tax collection.

Agreement nearing

East Stroudsburg's school board appears ready to accept a 60-40 cut and the borough of East Stroudsburg, Middle Smithfield, Lehman and Price townships have agreed to such a division, although not officially. Lehman has even hinted that it would go lower if the others would follow a similar path.

Stroudsburg's municipality members are virtually all agreed to accept a 50-50 break in the tax.

The two school boards took the initial step to enact this tax and should be rewarded. They also appear, at least on the surface, to be in greater immediate need of money than the municipalities. Even with a 60-40 split in the tax income, East Stroudsburg may be forced to enact an additional one-mill property tax to get over the rough spots during the first year.

In return for obtaining a full one per cent income from the tax, the schools would be charged with a strict accounting of the funds. In case the schools would have a sizable bundle in the treasury at the end of the fiscal year, they would be obligated to divide the profit with the municipalities.

If the schools are given the full one per cent tax bite for the first year, 50-50 splits in future years may prove adequate for all—without argument.

Federal employes facing crackdowns

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON -- Two influential members of Congress are demanding stern crackdowns on federal employes caught engaging in rioting and looting.

Among the hundreds of rioters and looters arrested in the recent violent racial disturbances in Washington, a number were found to be government workers. Police records show these offenders have an average pay of $85 to $95 a week, plus medical, vacation, pension and other fringe benefits. Also they have an average of 11 years of education, with some one or more years of college.

Many are postal employes, with as high as eight years' service.

Senator Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee with jurisdiction over the District of Columbia budget, and Representative H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, have introduced separate bills for vigorous punitive action against such law violators.

Stiff penalties

Under their measures, conviction would mean not only loss of job but exclusion from federal employment for five years.

"Like many Americans," said Representative Gross, "I was shocked to learn that a number of federal employes were found to be engaged in unlawful activities in the District of Columbia in connection with the recent riots. A local paper reported that 'many of them had some college education.'

"I think most citizens will agree with me when I say that federal employes are supposed to be law-abiding and responsible citizens, and certainly if they engage in activities related to civil disorders and riots in any community they are not entitled to the privilege of working for the federal government. My bill provides for the immediate removal of any federal employe who is convicted of engaging in an unlawful act in connection with any local disorder. It also provides that such persons shall not be re-employed with the federal government for a period of five years.

"I hope that federal employes in other parts of the United States are not engaging in these civil disorders. But if they are, my measure would apply to them as well as to those federal employes in the District of Columbia."

Senator Byrd's bill would apply to all government workers "convicted of engaging in or carrying out a riot or civil disturbance." The penalty would be "immediate removal from his position and exclusion from federal employment for the next five years."

Critics claim the Bible-quoting Miller, who can read the New Testament in Greek, started the new church to develop a new political religion, which eventually would be closely connected with the United Nations.

Miller is now serving on two important commissions set up by President Johnson. The President reportedly recently told White House aides that after Vice President Hubert Humphrey his choice as a successor would be Gov. Rockefeller.

Both Senators Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., and Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y., were ranked after Rockefeller by the President, according to a White House insider.

Role of business

One of the presidential commissions on which Miller is a member is studying the role of big business in rebuilding the slums and the other is about ready to make its report recommending that the Post Office be run by a private corporation.

If enacted by Congress, the recommendations of either commission could bring vast changes in the federal government and in the types of social services now provided to the public.

In 1965 Miller served as chairman of a special presidential panel that recommended liberalization of U.S. trade with Communist Russia and Eastern European nations. Those controversial proposals, which were transmitted to Congress by President Johnson, were shelved by the lawmakers because of the Vietnam war.

In the 1956 campaign Miller supported and contributed heavily to former President Eisenhower's re-election bid. Later in 1959, Miller and his political allies sought the secretary of commerce position for him, but Eisenhower said no.

Friends say Miller still has his sights trained on a Cabinet post and would take one in any liberal administration, regardless of party.

Advising Rockefeller

Jonathan Moore, the former controversial foreign policy adviser to Gov. George Romney in his unsuccessful campaign for the GOP presidential nomination, is now preparing briefing papers for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

A former State Department official, who took part in the so-called Vietnam "brain washing" incident that Romney complained about, Moore is credited with writing the speech that started Romney's skid, and with developing the Romney position calling for neutralization of South Vietnam as a solution to ending the war.

Surprise it was surprise

WASHINGTON — Considering how many pundits now claim to have predicted Lyndon Johnson would not seek another term, it's somewhat surprising that LBJ's announcement caught the public by surprise as it did.

Why, there's my old pal, Drew Piercing, attesting that his widely-syndicated column contained many choice remarks on the subject way before Christmas. Perhaps his readers ignored them on the assumption that they would be followed by the inevitable retractions. And then there is another esteemed colleague who, with a straight face, maintains that for at least six months he purposely wrote "if" the President runs again, rather than "when" the President, etc., etc. No doubt he is disappointed that his more astute readers did not pick up this subtle clue.

The list of other prognosticators is too lengthy to go into here, but suffice it to say most of them now brag about giving us little hints all along regarding LBJ's decision. Unfortunately, these tips seem to have been missed by the dull-witted masses.

Spell it out

Which proves one thing: If you're going to make a prediction, you must spell it out and not write it in cipher, as many of these distinguished men of letters seem to have been doing. Sadly, I, too, have learned my lesson and have decided to drop the heavily-disguised prediction from my bag of tricks.

People just don't get it. For instance, two years ago, I wrote a column in which Bobby Kennedy was mentioned. About 200 words after Bobby's name I had occasion to mention the old college yell, "Two, four, six, eight, who do we appreciate?" You would be astonished to learn how few people recognized this as a prediction that RFK would run in 1968.

There was a column three years ago about a man finding a wallet. This column appeared on the third day of the month. Clearly this pointed to Wallace running on a third-party ticket, yet only a small boy in Huntsville, Ala., and a little old lady in Downey, Calif., broke the code and credited me later with making this prediction.

Does anyone recall that last summer, in a column about LBJ, I mentioned the White House only once? Of course not. Yet, this was a certain indication I knew the President wanted but one term. And so it goes. This is a thankless job.

I've thought of a great compromise meeting place for Hanoi and White House negotiators: How about Glassboro, N.J.

Midwest nature communing

TRIPLE RIDGE FARM. By Ruth Fouts Pochmann. Morrow. $5.95.

There is an interesting combination of several themes in Mrs. Pochmann's narrative.

She celebrates the joys of country living, which is a pleasant and well-worn topic, but she does it without growing too lyrically effusive. She describes, with congenial inexpertise, some of the how-to-do-it aspects of patching up an old farmhouse, without much professional help. She is pretty smart about ecology and the conservation of soil, trees, birds and fish. She is a diligent observer of birds and animals, and a flower-finder and flower-planter. And, not the least of her accomplishments, she seems to have an intuitive knowledge of how contact with nature enriches family life.

This is the story of the Pochmann family's 15-year attachment to a 100-acre farm in central Wisconsin, which during weekends and vacations they developed into a haven for themselves and their friends. The main characters are the author; her professional husband, who was a trout-stream fan, and their daughter Virginia, who loved wildlife and horseback riding.

In the plentiful literature on country life, old houses and nature's blessings, we've had a good many volumes with a New England orientation. It is refreshing to find in this work a different scene and a different flavor.

Let's not pretend that Mrs. Pochmann is an accomplished writer. She isn't. But in her own chatty, earnest way she manages to convey a good deal of the spirit that arises from the adventure of living out there where nature gives a hopeful communion.

Judge slips off bench

SETTLED IN CHAMBERS. By Honor Tracy. Random. $4.95.

As a judge in a divorce court, Sir Toby Routh considers himself a guardian of society's moral fabric, and has a tendency to be quite harsh on philandering husbands.

In his private life, behind his facade of righteous recitude, he is something of a bore and a boor, a fact which seems to account for his wife Leila's affection for the bottle.

When Gerda, a young opera singer from Vienna — a romantic, red-haired baroness — first meets Sir Toby she doesn't realize how stuffy he really is. She enters quite willingly into an affair with the old boy, and he begins acting like a sophomore on vacation.

The judge naively believes his fall from grace is a secret, although most of his affluent neighbors and a gossip writer for a large London newspaper are among those who have caught on to the situation.

The deflation of Sir Toby is the principal event in this comic romp, but the author also sketches some amusing foibles of the British middle class, its social climbers and its eccentrics.

Miss Tracy's humor in this book is less acid than in some of her other works, and for that reason is more enjoyable.

Survives Russian poverty

TOMORROW WILL COME. By E. M. Almedingen. Holt, Rinehart. $4.95.

Here is a classical account of the human ill to survive, told in live, reverberating prose.

The scene is St. Petersburg (the present Leningrad). The author, born in 1898, was descended from an intellectual family of Czarist days. Her father, a scientist, had deserted her mother, and her childhood was marked by a bitter battle against poverty — a prelude to what was to come.

The Russian Revolution of 1917 is completely offstage in this chronicle. There are no ideological or political observations; the author seems to have had little regard for the rough realities of the Marxist and Leninist struggle. But it is an extremely personal, vividly subjective account of how one helpless individual clung to existence against terrible odds in the midst of that struggle.

The latter part of the book is like a suspense story. Crushed by famine and the brutally impersonal decrees of the revolutionary government, the young Miss Almedingen fought for life — aided by her mother until the latter's death, and later by a woman friend named Esther. By 1922 she was accustomed to wearing makeshift clothing (stitched together from old curtains) and depending at times on black bread and potato peelings for nourishment. Then came a miraculous, gambling chance at escape, and she managed to flee to the West in 1922.

The manuscript of this book was written in the 1930s; it was first published in 1941. Meanwhile the author, living in England, has become a respected medieval scholar, a poet and novelist. The book is being re-issued as an important sociological document.

Today's reader will find this a masterfully written, eloquent description of a nightmarish, chaotic world.

Super spy actually real

ACE OF SPIES. By Robin Bruce Lockhart. Stein and Day. $5.95.

It is refreshing in this day where sexy super-spies like James Bond dominate mystery reading, to read of a real true-to-life spy, Sidney Reilly, who was in his heyday after the turn of the century through World War I and the Russian Revolution.

Reilly, like the spies of the present day, had several wives and a great many mistresses. However, the difference was that his espionage made a significant contribution to the events of the day and some of them matched those of the fictional spies. Besides the exploits of Reilly, the documentation of how the British Secret Service operated from the turn of the century to 1925 is fascinating.

There isn't quite enough of Reilly's exploits where he penetrated the German General Staff as a spy, and the end of the book is too much about his passionate hatred of the Soviet Regime, which eventually led to his downfall. The last part of the book is more political than espionage.

Jim Bishop

Those good old days

We sat in Joe's Stone Crabs. The eating was noisy. The crab claws are big and the diner lights them with a nutcracker, a bib, a sauce made of mustard and mayonnaise and the random abuse of friends. Every time a claw was discarded, it sounded like a china saucer dropped from a skyscraper.

The conversation was Broadway. It's a street. A long time ago, most of us around the table worked it. We had a Cohen and a Kelly around the table, a King, a Weiss and a couple of Bishops. You couldn't have started a fight with a hand grenade.

Dr. Art Cohen was too young to remember the Broadway that Jesse Weiss and I recall. We worked it when it was old and mellow, a sucker trap for all except those it called its own. There was Larry Fay, who set Texas Guinan up in a nightclub and had to pay for his drinks.

Audience of drunks

Richard Bennett, who read the Bible for 20 minutes in the Paradise Club to a rapt and silent audience of drunks. A slick-haired kid named Georgie Raft, from the West Side, who got up and Charlestoned all over the floor. Mark Hellinger, who stood in the rain with his hat over his heart as a casket was carried from a hearse to a brownstone house. In the casket was the daily delivery of instant scotch.

Toots Shor, the bouncer, who could be easily tapped with the right story but, if an untrue note got in it, would knock your block off. Damon Runyon, who enjoyed a Chinese lunch at the Palais D'Or while fat B.A. Rolfe hit the high sweet notes on a cornet. Sime Silverman, founder of Variety, who grabbed every check in the joint and paid it.

John Barrymore, bombed, telling a mounted policeman: "You're sore because your horse took the test for sergeant and passed." Louis Sobol playing gin rummy behind the barbershop at Twenty One. The drunk at The Lambs Club who was suspended for one year for taking his cane and sweeping all the drinks off the bar. When he returned, someone asked him what he was punished for. Innocently, he said: "For doing this," and ran his cane down all the drinks on the bar.

Walter Winchell in the late spots, always sober, sharp when the would was dull. Harry Richman lisping, "It Had To Be You." Joe Frisco missing a whole show at the Club 18 because he was in a dressing room getting bombed with Jackie Gleason. Sophie Tucker and Belle Baker belting songs at the Palace.

Private payrolls

Jesse Weiss said that what they all had in common was loyalty. True. But there was another thing, a bit more subtle. Most of them had private payrolls. Sime Silverman sent money every week to old actors who were down on their luck. I took care of Mark Hellinger's payroll, and I know it came to $220 a week.

He was a snap-brim hat with a navy blue shirt, a white tie, and a raspy voice. I was his secretary. He wrote a sob O. Henry column and had a zillion readers and a million friends. The bums came to the office every Friday and I doled out the money. It was $10 here, five dollars there, $30 to someone else.

They had two dollar bills also. Part of my job was to fold them to postage stamp size. Mr. H. went to dinner with his beautiful bride, Gladys Glad, and a pocketful of the bills. At every shop doorway — or every other one — a down-and-out actor stepped out, faked surprise, said "Why, hello, Mark" and the columnist would shake hands with a "two-spot" in the palm of his hand.

One actor came to the door every Friday and got $20 from me. This went on for years. One day he gave me his lofty look and said: "Would you please ask Mr. Hellinger why I must travel across town every Friday for this insufferable pittance? Ask him if he can mail it to my boarding house at 220 West 44th Street."

I choked. "Well," I said to Hellinger, "that takes him off the list!" Hellinger laughed. "Oh no, kiddie," he said. "Mail it to him." I was earning $40 a week working my head off, and the actor got half that for doing nothing. The payoff came in the summer when I received a note from the bum: "Until further notice," it said, "please mail my dough to the Union Hotel, Saratoga, N.Y."

The difference between that breed and the current one is loyalty and a soft touch.

Harris Survey

White, Negro gap never wider

BY LOUIS HARRIS

For all the legislation passed and for all the programs set up in the last five years to try to move racial progress ahead, the gulf between whites and Negroes in this country rarely has seemed wider.

It is not that rational America cannot articulate the size and scope of the problem. Rather, a sizable gap exists between what people rationally recognize and the way they emotionally react.

Nearly three-quarters of both whites and blacks say they would make personal sacrifices to improve Negro living conditions, but no more than 39 percent are willing to pay higher taxes to rebuild the ghettos. Nine out of 10 whites think black people live in miserable conditions, but less than five in 10 favored open housing legislation up to the time of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

A massive 78 percent of white America is convinced that inequality for Negroes here at home hurts the United States abroad, but 69 percent of all whites also think that Negroes are asking for more than they are ready to absorb.

Far apart

When asked about last summer's rioting, whites and Negroes showed themselves far apart in assessing causes and blame. Whites believe that riots are organized while Negroes do not. Whites are opposed to any extension of federal government responsibility for welfare payments, while Negroes want such an extension. Most of all, whites simply do not feel that white racism is a major root cause of black disorders, while a majority of Negroes feel it is.

Even at the moment of Dr. King's Death, white and Negro America showed alarming signs of growing into two armed camps. A survey in March revealed that 55 percent of all whites and 32 percent of Negroes had guns in their homes. When asked if they would use their guns against other people in case of a riot, 51 percent of all gun owners said they would, up sharply from a comparable 29 percent last August.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

The weekend after Easter is usually a busy one, but this year seems even busier than ever with weddings galore and special meetings, and the Stroud Community Club's art show. Or maybe it's not that the pace has speeded up but that I've slowed down.

Whenever I get to feeling sorry for myself, it's not because I have to work. Everybody has to work at something, even if it's at being a party girl — or getting out of doing chores.

Many a busy day, I keep running into the same people at a committee meeting in the afternoon and a club meeting at night, and think, gratefully, "And I get paid for doing this!"

And hearing widows complain about the long, lonely evenings I can even be grateful for ringing telephones and chattering machines.

Which doesn't mean I can't also work up a good case of feeling abused — when the weather is fine and friends take off on a day's shopping trip; when the weather is hot and the beaches are full; when the air is crisp and everyone else is going somewhere; when it's cold and wet and people settle down to an afternoon of bridge.

The grass is always greener on the other side of the fence, and there are days when I'm even greener than that.

Six candidates battle in two area Representative races

139th General Assembly District

J. Russell Eshback

REPUBLICAN

Name of Candidate: J. Russell Eshback
Party: Republican
Address: Bushkill
Age: 69
Candidate for: Representative

A. EDUCATION - B.S. from Pennsylvania State College; M.A. from Columbia University. Thirteen years experience in public school teaching.

B. OCCUPATION—Farmer and incumbent Representative

C. What particular training and experience have you had that would qualify you for this office?

Have been a member of the State House of Representatives since 1959. Chairman, Committee on Recreation and Tourism; member, Committee on Appropriations; member, Committee on Townships; member, Committee on Civil Defense; member, Committee on Agriculture and Dairy Industries; member, Committee on Public Utilities; member, Joint State Commission Task Force on Tax Exempt Properties.

Have been elected to and served in the following county offices: County Treasurer, Prothonotary, Register and Recorder, and County Commissioner in Pike County.

1. What recommendations do you have for meeting the increased costs of state government?

I suggest that your organization, everyone interested in the social, economic and educational welfare of this Commonwealth, every resident of Pennsylvania contact their Congressman and United States senators to urgently request that the federal government return to the Commonwealth an extra one billion dollars of the income tax received by them from Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvanians pay approximately $9,000,000,000 in federal income tax. Of this amount, less than half is returned to the Commonwealth with stipulations as to how it is to be spent.

If the above-mentioned one billion dollars was returned to the General Fund of the Commonwealth, our financial problems would be solved.

Henry A. Finn

REPUBLICAN

Name of Candidate—Henry A. Finn.
Address—Waymart. Party — Republican.
Age—43. Candidate for Representative.

A. EDUCATION - New York Military Academy. University of Scranton. (Minored in political science).

Increase efficiency of existing government offices and operations.

(1) Avoid borrowing, thus avoiding the necessity for paying interest. There is no return value to the people from interest expense.

(2) Mergers of new programs into existing bureaus and agencies, thus avoiding the extra cost in setting up and operating new departments.

(3) Conscientious and prudent expenditures of the people's tax revenue.

SALARY—$12,000

Edwin Krawitz

REPUBLICAN

Name of Candidate — Edwin Krawitz.
Address — East Stroudsburg. — Party — Republican.
Age—39. Candidate for Representative.

A. EDUCATION—University of Pennsylvania and University of Pennsylvania Law School.

B. OCCUPATION—Lawyer.

C. What particular training and experience have you had that would qualify you for this office?

My career as lawyer. Being named Outstanding Young Man of the Year Award, president of Kiwanis, Jaycees, Young Republicans and Chairman of fund drives.

1. What recommendations do you have for meeting the increased costs of State government?

1. Careful research must be made into the matter of how programs will be funded before enactment of legislation. It must be clear that there will be money to pay for a project before a bill is passed spending it.

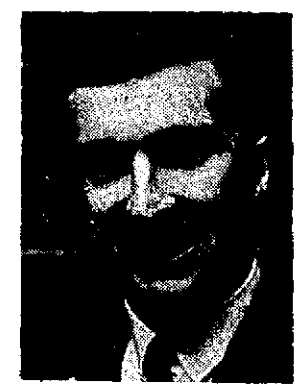
2. Study must be made of additional revenue sources in existence in out states but not in Pennsylvania and whether or not they can be made to apply to our state.

3. Greater economies in government should be instituted and budgets more carefully scrutinized before appropriations are made.

4. Vigorous action should be taken to tighten up tax laws.

5. Analysis into the validity and property of existing exemptions presently in force should be made to determine whether or not the exemption should stand or the subject be taxed.

6. If there is less government interference in private enterprise thereby decreasing business expense and permitting business to expand resulting in increased growth, a lesser amount of grants from the state would be required, thereby reducing state expenditures and permitting lower taxes.



Peter J. O'Brien

DEMOCRAT

Name of candidate: Peter J. O'Brien.
Address: Mount Pocono. Party: Democratic.
Age: 30. Candidate for Representative.

A. EDUCATION: Villanova University, Villanova University Law School.

B. OCCUPATION: Attorney.

C. What particular training and experience have you had that would qualify you for this office?

President of Pocono Mountain Babe Ruth League; chairman of Pocono Mountain Ecumenical Conference, member budget Committee of Community Chest Board of Directors, Mount Pocono YMCA.

What recommendations do you have for meeting the increased costs of State government?

The first step in meeting the cost of government is to decide which costs should be met. Priorities must be determined.

Essential programs such as Education and Law Enforcement will require increased outlays. Some funds could be obtained by reducing or eliminating less important programs, and by encouraging the private sector to finance activities such as the Historical Commission (1969) appropriations, three million dollars.

The second step is to eliminate special privileges in present revenue acts such as public utilities tax exemptions, and adopt new revenue measures which have the broadest possible base and the least direct impact on the homemaker's budget.

(Information supplied by League of Women Voters)

138th General Assembly District

Russell Kowalyshyn

DEMOCRAT

Name of Candidate Russell Kowalyshyn. Party Democratic.
Address, Northampton.

B. OCCUPATION — Attorney.

C. What particular training and experience have you had that would qualify you for this office?

Served eight years as assistant district attorney of Northampton County.

Served six years as School Director of Northampton Area School District.

What recommendations do you have for meeting the increased costs of state government?

Like running your own household, Pennsylvania's 12 million citizens are entitled to a sound state fiscal program. Our state government must live within its means.

Accordingly, we should establish a system of priorities as to what activities and to what extent the state shall devote its revenues. I believe top priority should be given to education and to the maintenance of a healthy economy.

Also, we should remove the inequities and improve the administration of present taxes.

The legislature as well as the governor should have the necessary technical assistance to plan, adopt and control the fiscal program.

VOTE FOR ONE IN EACH DISTRICT

Russell C. Becker

REPUBLICAN

Name of Candidate: Russell C. Becker. Party: Republican.
Address: Northampton.
Age: 51.
Candidate for Representative.

A. EDUCATION — Moore Township schools.

B. OCCUPATION—Businessman and farmer.

C. What particular training and experience have you had that would qualify you for this office?

Presently serving as Director of the Northampton-Monroe County Farmers' Assn., and on the legislative committee of both the state and national levels.

President of the Northampton Area School Board and serving in 21st year as school director from Morre Township.

Serving on the Board of Directors of Moore Township Chamber of Commerce.

What recommendations do you have for meeting the increased costs of State Government?

Before we have answers and recommendations for meeting the current cost of state government we should examine many areas to find if moneys approved and spent are being used to their best advantage.

There also must be a priority system set up in Pennsylvania to determine what we need most, when we need it, and how we will pay for it.

No piece of legislation costing large sums of money should be allowed to pass through Legislature without a proper accompanying method of finance to support the bill.

Ann Landers

Make third chance work

Dear Ann Landers: I'll make it brief and to the point. My age: 36. Background: Married twice. First marriage to a man twice my age. (I was 16.) My mother pushed me into it because she thought he was rich. I said OK because I thought he was kind. We were both wrong. The third time he broke my nose I divorced him.

My second marriage lasted two years. My husband drank vodka martinis for breakfast with beer chasers. He worked for the city and had a fatal accident at work. I'm sure he was smashed on the job, but they paid off nicely and I got a generous settlement.

I bought a small cafe three years ago and have been doing very well. The problem: A 19-year-old applied for a job four months ago and I hired him. He is handsome, hardworking, and I think we are in love. He is very grown-up for his age and looks a lot older than he is. The Army won't take him because he has a steel plate in his head. He wants to marry me. What do you think?

ANGIE

Dear Angie: The kid has a steel plate in his head. What's your excuse?

A fellow 19 should be looking for a girl 17. If you are smart you'll help him find one. Where's his mother, anyway?

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 13-year-old boy who thinks your advice stinks. Why did you tell that 12-year-old kid he is better off staying in the house practicing the piano, which he hates, than being out in the fresh air playing ball with the gang? Any doctor will tell you that you are wrong. Also this kid's chances of becoming a great ball player are a lot better than his chances of becoming a great piano player because he said in his letter he loves baseball and hates the piano.

I used to think you were on the side of us kids, but now I think you are a crabby old lady.

FORMER FRIEND

Dear Former: I doubt seriously that the boy is in danger of becoming either a great pianist or a great ball player. That, however, is beside the point. What I had in mind was discipline. Unfortunately, too many kids are allowed to do only what is easy, convenient or pleasant and practicing piano is not usually on the list. Got it straight now, Buddy?

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage—What To Expect."

4,000 dogs need licenses

STROUDSBURG — Thomas Joyce, Monroe County treasurer, said Thursday that there are about 4,000 dogs which have not been licensed for 1968.

E. S. Clark, Milford, who is state dog law enforcement officer for this area, said that an intensive effort will be made by all enforcement personnel during the next few weeks to search for stray dogs and check current licenses.

Clark urged all dog owners to make certain their dogs are licensed and under complete control at all times.

Parliament backs Polish chief

WARSAW (AP) — Poland's Communist party chief, Wladyslaw Gomulka, anchored his power base Thursday against the challenge of a group headed by the nation's secret police chief. Parliament approved Gomulka men as the new ceremonial president and minister of defense.

Without a dissenting vote, the 460-member Sejm, or Parliament, elected Marshal Marian Spychalski, 61, to the vacant post of president. It then unanimously backed the nomination of Lt Gen. Wojciech Jaruselski, 44, as defense minister, the job Spychalski left.

Four other changes, three at Cabinet level, also were announced in the continuing shake-up that has followed the Gomulka regime's bitter reaction to last month's antigovernment student riots. In two of Thursday's shifts men in their 40s replaced 60-year-old ministers.

U·S· housing rules don't match state's

HARRISBURG (AP) — The open housing provisions of the civil rights bill, signed by President Johnson Thursday, will have little effect on Pennsylvania, since this state has a more stringent statute.

Pennsylvania's law, amended just last year, prohibits racial discrimination in the sale of all housing and in the rental of all but private dwellings.

Put some punch in lunch

The kids tell me my lunches have been slipping lately. One child complained he bit into a sandwich and between two slices of bread was another slice of bread. Another said a piece of fruit had become so decadent it actually spoke to him.

I don't have any excuses except that I'm tired. I'm tired of inhaling chili fumes before I am able to speak in the mornings. I'm tired of remembering who likes mustard, who hates lettuce, throws up when he smells tomato soup.

Mostly, I'm sick of the complaints. You wouldn't know it, but I used to be a real lunch-packing pioneer. They tell me children used to gather around the luncheon table just to watch my kids lay their lunches out on the table.

I remember the first time I forced a foot-long hot dog into a Mickey Mouse thermos under pressure. It was like a space launch. Shouts of "Go Man Go!" filled the cafeteria as the wiener hesitated a moment, then lifted off the thermos. The janitor is still trying to figure out how the mustard got on the ceiling of the lunchroom.

Cold bouillon

I was also the first (and the last) to send cold bouillon in a glass jar. The science teacher informed me by phone that some prankster put a "specimen" label on it, slipped it on his desk and that his six period general science students diagnosed it as diabetes.

Lunches used to be a fun thing that challenged a mother's inventive genius. When the children were in primary grades, I used to put little notes in their sandwiches that read, "Happy Birthday" or "Good Luck On Your Recess." Then I discovered they caused heartburn.

I used to send grapes in Dixie cups. Then I discovered they were putting the grapes in their eyeballs and saying, "Gloriosky, Sandy, go get Daddy Warbucks."

I used to send nutritious carrots and shredded cole slaw. Word got back to me they traded it to some first grader for his ballpoint pen.

"Why don't you send hard boiled eggs anymore? One of them asked.

"You know why I don't send hard boiled eggs anymore. I liked to never got the yolks out of your hair the last time."

"You used to send ice cream in our thermos!"

"That's before I found out you stored your lunch on top of the radiator.

"Do I have another bread sandwich today?"

"No, it's cold roast beaf. (moan) What's the matter with that?"

"I hate lunches you have to chew! Now I'll have to play in the outfield."

Don't ask me to explain that remark. All I know is, I've got seven weeks and 105 lunches to go.

Judge upholds objections involving sale of cabin

STROUDSBURG — President Judge Arlington W. Williams Thursday upheld preliminary objections to a complaint in equity involving the ownership of a hunting cabin and the sharing of profit in the event of sale.

In a six-page opinion handed down by Judge Williams preliminary objections filed by defendant Stanley Gordon, Stroudsburg, represented by Attorney John J. Pentz, were sustained in the litigation with plaintiff Maude W. N. Reasley, executrix of the estate of Albert H. Reasly.

Attorney Edwin Krawitz represents the plaintiff.

According to the opinion, the original complaint alleges that the plaintiff's decedent until his death and the defendant were the two surviving members of the Pine Ridge Club, Bushkill, and leased land from the State Department of Forests and Waters.

The papers allege that after the death of the plaintiff's decedent the defendant advertised the cabin and furnishings for sale with an intent not to share the proceeds with plaintiff.

Plaintiff claims half ownership of the property.

According to Judge Williams, the relief sought in the complaint is basically, that the defendant be preliminarily enjoined from selling the cabin and its contents; that the plaintiff and defendant be declared owners of the cabin and its contents as tenants in common, and that the defendant account for rent income and profit from the cabin.

In filing the preliminary objections defendant raised the basic issue of whether the complaint states a good cause of action.

Quoting several citations Judge Williams arrived at the following opinion.

"Since the complaint fails to allege or set forth any by-law, rule, or regulation of the club or show any agreement between the members of the club or any agreement, between the plaintiffs decedent and the defendant that changes the uniform rule that members of an unincorporated association hold the property of the club as joint tenants and not as tenants in common, we are compelled to conclude that the complaint fails to set forth a cause of action."

Judge Williams proclaimed the following orders:

"The preliminary objection is sustained."

"The plaintiff has 20 days to file an amended complaint."

If no amended complaint is filed the complaint will be dismissed by the court.

Rotarians hear about 4-H club

STROUDSBURG — Three Monroe County 4-H Club members addressed members of the Rotary at the luncheon meeting held Thursday, discussing "what 4-H means to me."

Sonia Mehikoff of Canadensis, a 10th grade student, pointed out the diversity of projects, fellowship with other boys and girls and the opportunity to be a junior 4-H leader and help others. Sonia has spent the last five years in 4-H club work and is currently in the Home Economics Club in Mountainhome.

Margie Walter of Stroudsburg, a 12th grade student, said, "4-H is not just winning, but learning to lose gracefully," also pointing out one of the outstanding events she has participated in, like the State Capitol Day in Harrisburg last spring where she met with legislators and toured the capitol to learn about state government. Margie has been working in 4-H for four years and is currently active in the Horse Project Club.

Al Kerrick of Blakeslee, an 11th grade student, expressed his thoughts at being able to develop self-confidence through 4-H activities. Al has worked with the club for eight years and is currently in the Dairy Project Club. He had Grand Champion award in the district dairy show last year. Al will be a Rotary Exchange Student to Chile this summer and is one of the 60 4-H'ers who will go to Penn State for the Club Congress, as a member of the Leadership Council.

Miss Anne Lott, assistant county agent and coordinator for all county 4-H activities, gave an introductory talk about the 4-H program, pointing out that in the county only two per cent of the members come from a farm. The county membership is now about 300 boys and girls.

Small was traveling south on Route 191 at a high rate of speed and failed to make a sharp turn, ran off the roadway to the east shoulder, then struck a tree, police said.

County hires Stroudsburg realtor

Flood land to be appraised

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners Thursday announced the appointment of an area real estate broker to appraise land sites to be included in the proposed Upper Brodhead Creek Flood Control plan.

Walter Dreher, Stroudsburg, has been named to determine appraisals on the 10 sites, at a cost to the county not to exceed $1,200.

The plan to have a separate appraisal of the land was formulated during recent weeks by the commissioners after several landowners, notably Buck Hill Falls Co. and Skytop, Inc., suggested that such an appraisal be made.

The commissioners hope to use the appraisal figures in bargaining sessions with land owners in obtaining the necessary easements for the land rights.

The motion to approve the appointment was made by acting chairman Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis and seconded by Arlington Martin to have the appraisal made of "all properties involved in the upstream dam project to be compiled by May 6 at a cost not to exceed $1,200.

May 7 has been set as a tentative date to report progress on the project to state officials and discuss the possibility of altering or deleting the controversial Griscom Creek structure proposed for Buck Hill property.

Skytop Inc. has also recently expressed concern over the project which requires 13 acres of the resort's property.

According to Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis, contact has been made with a New Jersey physician representing a group of physicians and attorneys who also own land in the proposed dam area.

The group owns land in the Skytop road area including the Deer Run Lodge.

According to Mrs. Shukaitis, Dr. George Peck, representing the land owners, said that the project would take about 92 acres of the property, cutting the area in half.

"We are certainly willing to cooperate with anything that is fair," Dr. Peck is quoted as reporting to Mrs. Shukaitis in a phone conversation this week.

Mrs. Shukaitis said that Peck was under the impression that a fence was included in the Soil Conservation Service plans that would circle the dam site.

Commissioner Martin, a member of the SCS board, said that to his knowledge there was never mention of such a fence.

It was reported that Peck indicated that the land should be purchased at "market value as set by two appraisers."

During the next weeks the commissioners will contact the remaining land owners involved in the project and will conduct an on-site inspection of the land Wednesday.

Judge sends two men to prison

STROUDSBURG — A pair of Monroe County men were sentenced to jail terms Thursday in Monroe County by President Judge Arlington W. Williams.

Sentenced were. Kenneth Miller, 22, Mt. Pocono, burglary, six to 23 months in addition to a $100 fine, and Neil Irving Cornwell, Tobyhanna, six to 12 months in the county jail and a $300 fine after being convicted of burglary.

Miller had pleaded guilty to burglarizing the Scotrun Sports Shop and was apprehended Jan. 31, while attempting to leave the shop with merchandise.

Cornwell was convicted of stealing guns from the home of Eugene Locke, Pocono Manor.

Herbert Waldron, Hazleton, was fined $300 and costs after pleading guilty to operating a motor vehicle while under suspension.

Arbitrators award $388

STROUDSBURG — A $388 award was made to Charles D. Davis, Mt. Pocono, Thursday by a Monroe County Board of Arbitration in a case against Elizabeth Mattella and Margaret Simmons, trading as the Ontwood Hotel, Swiftwater.

In other business, the board tabled a request for a $2,000 allocation by the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau for further study.

A request from Stroud Township for up to $33,000 in liquid fuel allocations was also tabled. The municipality made application but asked for no specific amount it was reported by Chief Clerk William Reasor.

It was announced that William Luksic, special assistant to T. Newell Wood (R-20th) will be in Monroe County Courthouse the third Thursday of every month to meet with area citizens.

A communication from Wood said that Luksic will meet with residents from 9:30 to 11:30 Thursday mornings and when possible the state senator would also be present.

The commissioners will request the use of the Civil Defense kitchen for the meeting place.

Solicitor Elmer D. Christine reminded the board that the state's new fiscal calendar will become law Jan. 1, 1969.

The new calendar would require budgets to be completed by Dec. 31.

Although not mandatory, Christine said it was suggested by the state that the county start 1969 budget preparation this August and be completed by Dec. 31, 1968.

He said the new municipal schedules will soon be officially issued by the state.

A special vote of thanks to the work being accomplished by the "Gray Ladies" and Girl Scouts in Red Cross and hospital work was made by the board upon suggestion by Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis, who along with Martin, praised the work of the groups.

Sheriff thinks dummy allowed prisoners to fool jail guards

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Sheriff Forrest B. Sebring now believes that the escape of two prisoners from the Monroe County Jail was made about midnight Tuesday.

William P. Korocy, 24, of DeRidder, La., was reportedly in the Delmar Tavern, Mount Pocono, between 12:30 and 1 a.m. Wednesday, according to Sebring. There has been no report that Gearhart was with Korocy in the tavern.

Korocy was killed when the stolen car he was driving hit a gas station pole at "The Forks" in Mountainhome.

The other escapee, Edward Gearhart of Stroudsburg, is in guarded condition at the Monroe County General Hospital. He has a possible brain concussion and a laceration of the right kidney, according to a hospital spokesman.

Sebring had first reported that both prisoners were in their cells when guards made a check at 2:10 a.m. He said that the guards had told him that to the best of their knowledge both Korocy and Gearhart were in their cells at that time.

But now Sebring believes that Gearhart made up a dummy in his bed out of his clothing, blankets, and pillow.

Gearhart was a trustee and his cell was not locked. Korocy was locked in his cell.

Sebring theorizes that a third party was waiting outside the jail and that Gearhart who was adept at making keys and picking locks opened the exercise yard door which connects with the cell block, walked across the yard and threw the key over the wall.

The third party in the parking lot then picked up the key and opened the door. This door only opens from the outside, Sebring said. The key that opens the door from the cellblock to the exercise yard also fits the outside lock to the door between the yard and the parking lot.

Sebring said he had established Korocy's presence in the Delmar Tavern through a conversation with a man who saw and talked to Korocy in the tavern about Tuesday midnight.

"This man had worked previously with Korocy," Sebring said. "The man told me he had asked Korocy what he was doing in the tavern and Korocy had said he'd just got out of out of jail," the Sherrif added.

About noon Thursday Sebring said he learned from a hospital spokesman that Gearhart was ready to be discharged from the hospital.

Sebring had Gearhart brought back to the jail. Gearhart stayed in the jail for four hours, 12:30 - 4:30 p.m. "Gearhart was delirious," Sebring said. "When I realized that his condition was not good I called the hospital and requested an ambulance to take him back to the hospital."

Sebring said he is continuing to question other prisoners who might have any knowledge of just when the pair escaped and if any of the prisoners did see a third party in the parking lot.

Gearhart had only 20 days left to serve of a minimum 11 and one-half - 23 month sentence for larceny of a motor vehicle.

James Fisher had told Sebring that he believed he had seen Gearhart and Korocy in Paradise Township early Wednesday morning. It was erroneously reported that Fisher was Gearhart's step-father. Fisher maintains a room in a house which he rents to Mrs. Mary Gearhart.

"I have wanted to buy prison uniforms and now there is no doubt in my mind that they will be purchased. I guess there will be some talk about the bill in the courthouse, but they will be purchased," Sebring said.

"If the two men (Gearhart and Korocy) had been in prison uniforms anyone who saw them would have known they were escaped prisoners. I understand that they were seen at Laurel Beverage when it was burglarized. Again I say had they been in prison uniforms they would have been identified as prisoners," he concluded.

Sebring also pointed out that he expects to change the locks on the cell doors.

"This will cost a pretty penny but it must be done. I have been given to understand that a set of keys for the locks now in use are missing and have been missing for several years, before I came into office." Sebring said.

"Gearhart has a reputation for being a 'good man to open a lock' but please understand I am not in any way saying that he (Gearhart) has the keys or that he picked the lock the other night. I have no proof of this," Sebring concluded.

Commissioners cite increased funds while questioning break

By RICK METHOT
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Wednesday's early morning jailbreak which resulted in the death of William Korocy, 24, drew sharp comment Thursday from minority Democratic County Commissioner Arlington 'Bud' Martin.

Martin commented on the record budget of more than $82,000 approved for the jail and sheriff's department with a $56,000 slice going directly to the jail.

"I know our budget was increased for the jail," Martin said, "We were assured that security would be furnished and in less than 100 days we have a jailbreak."

The West End Commissioner, waiting until the end of Thursday's session to comment on the still puzzling escape, made the remark that he would, "like to think that we're guarding prisoners, too, not just guarding guards."

Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis seemed in accord with the statements made by Martin saying, "There can't be a very good excuse for this happening if there's adequate supervision."

Both commissioners in the absence of Chairman Elwood Hintze, agreed that there should be a full report of the Wednesday's break out and will request a report on the investigation being conducted by Sheriff Forrest B. Sebring.

Mrs. Shukaitis added that, in her estimation, the county has "cooperated" with Sebring and that in return the same consideration should be shown the commissioners.

Ground broken for warehouse

STROUDSBURG — Ground-breaking ceremonies were held Thursday for a new Pepsi-Cola warehouse and distribution center to be constructed in Stroudsburg on Rockdale Lane between old and new Route 209.

The 6,000-square-foot structure will be built by the Stroudsburg firm of Lockwood-Chapin Corporation, general contractor, for the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company of Allentown, Inc.

Ronald W. Woods, vice president-general manager of the bottling company, said the facility will serve as the distribution point for all Pepsi-Cola products delivered to outlets in Monroe and Warren Counties, as well as parts of Northampton and Pike counties.

From its headquarters and plants in Allentown, the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company serves all of Lehigh and Northampton counties, the greater parts of Monroe and Carbon counties and parts of Bucks and Pike counties in Pennsylvania, as well as all of Warren and parts of Hunterton counties in New Jersey.

Woods said that the new Stroudsburg warehouse will facilitate service to customers in the Northeastern portion of the company's service area.

Lehman planners ok plan

BUSHKILL — The Lehman Township Planning Commission Thursday night unanimously adopted a resolution recommending adoption of its master plan by the Board of Supervisors.

Adoption of the resolution came after a more than one-hour discussion on both what the community and supervisors think of the Master Plan.

Generally, the master plan is favored by township residents, supervisors, and individual planning commission members, supervisors said Thursday.

The supervisors, however, were a bit concerned over a lack of details on some portions of the plan, said Stewart Schoonover.

Schoonover was primarily referring to five sewer trunk lines proposed in the township.

Carl Rohner, planning commission chairman, said that the sewer trunk lines were recommended by the Delaware River Basin Commission and were included in the plan since it is a future guideline for the township.

Rohner explained that the sewer trunk lines will undoubtedly not be needed until the year 2020.

Richard DePue, planning commission secretary, was concerned over minor community objections to the overall plan.

He stated that there was a small faction within the township which is opposed to the plan.

He asked both supervisors and planning commission members whether there are any constructive criticisms of the plan.

If there are such constructive criticisms, DePue added, then perhaps the plan should be altered. There were apparently no such criticisms.

The Master Plan basically outlines three areas within the township for future growth. One of the three areas, located in the center of the township, is proposed for a new Bushkill since the present community will be inundated by the waters of the Tocks Island Reservoir.

The Board of Supervisors will now act on the Planning Commission's recommendation. Indications are that the supervisors will adopt the plan.

In order to make the plan a reality, supervisors would have to adopt subdivision regulations, zoning code and an official township map. A building permit code was already adopted and supervisors are currently studying a proposed subdivision regulation.

"We talked about equipment and processes and nothing was said about any future developments," Hughes stated.

Hughes revealed that there would be another meeting in the same offices next Tuesday.

Players give $3,100 to help build wing

EAST STROUDSBURG — A check for $3,100 was presented by Robert Howell, president of the Phoenix Players, to Dr. Margaret Evermon for the Mental Health wing of the Monroe County General Hospital.

The money represents the joint efforts of the many volunteers for the Mental Health Benefit Committee of the Community Mental Health Center and the community theater group's production of "The Threepenny Opera," the Brecht-Weill musical, presented on February 24 at the college auditorium.

The committee, made up of a cross section of community life, joined with the Phoenix Players in volunteering their services and talents to work on the benefit production.

The check was presented Thursday night at a gathering of committee members, members of the Phoenix Players, cast and staff who worked on production, and invited guests at the Hauska House in Saylorsburg, home of William Marley, member of the Phoenix Players board.

It was held in the small theater he built on his grounds.

Entertainment was provided with a perview of original cabaret revue matieial written by Mr. Marley and presented by Astrid Keuler, Tony Belfiore, Bill and Ann Ray Palermo, with Elizabeth Crawford as the pianist.

Dr. Evermon, who is the director of the Mental Health Clinic, joined with Robert Howell, who directed "Threepenny" and Lenore Davis, who acted as producer, and other committee members in marking this as both a unique and successful venture with two independent groups working toward the mutual goal.

Officials review E.S. zoning

EAST STROUDSBURG — Three municipal bodies discussed borough zoning ordinance revision and review during a joint meeting Thursday night to "help establish continuity of thinking and set up guide lines for the future," in the words of Leon Zacher, borough planning commission chairman.

In attendance were Mayor Thomas Kistler, council members, planners, and representatives of the Zoning Board of Adjustment, with Zacher outlining proposed changes in the borough ordinance.

"What is lacking," Zacher said, "is a set of guidelines for the actual design and physical atmosphere involved in new construction, and we might well start with our new borough hall. Even color is important," he said.

The planner emphasized that parking lot design, landscaping, and the proximity of new housing units should be carefully defined in new projects, in order to make the borough as attractive as possible.

"For example," Zacher said, "clustering of buildings makes for a far more attractive housing area than houses built side by side and row upon row. The same number of units would then be situated in a given area, with the same family density, but the spacing would create a better overall design.

"This would also give more flexibility and variety to the community," he added.

Governor places ban on burning

HARRISBURG — An executive order banning fires "within woodlands or within 200 feet of woodlands in any county of the commonwealth" was issued Thursday by Governor Raymond Shafer.

John H. Bitzer, Monroe County district forester, said the order will be effective today, at noon and explained that the order prohibits any open outside burning of brush or rubbish, within the area outlined by the state order and it also does not permit smoking by individuals within the woods.

"There is a fine of $100 or up to 30 days in jail that can be enforced," Bitzer added. "A lot of people also do not know that any person that is found responsible for a forest fire will also be responsible for the cost of putting out that fire," Bitzer said.

"Since the last rains the fire index has built up and the need for rain increases proportionately in order to reduce the index to a safer level, and the threat of fire is definitely greater," Bitzer explained.

The biggest fire so far this year was a 500-acre fire in Clinton County, and this year's total damage is already 6,000 acres and already far exceeds the total number reported for all of 1967, Bitzer said.

"If the fire is serious enough to kill the organic matter in the ground, it may take 75 to 100 years to re-establish a mature forest," Bitzer pointed out.

S-burg board accepts four resignations

STROUDSBURG — Miss Frances S. Everett, an elementary teacher in the Stroudsburg school district for more than 40 years, will retire at the end of this school year, it was reported at a meeting of the school board Wednesday.

Other resignations accepted by the board were Mrs. Geraldine E. DeMilio and Mrs. Barbara A. Seeney, elementary teachers, and Burdette Peechatka, a secondary teacher.

Robert S. Williams was hired as a custodian at the Morey School at $4,000 and Earl A. Carr was named temporary custodian at $77 per week.

The Monroe County Optimist Babe Ruth League was given permission to use the athletic field for its league games.

Donald E. James, a Prudential Insurance Co. agent, was granted permission by the board to discuss tax-deferred annuities with teachers after class hours.

The group is holding a "Meet the Candidates" night, with Truax as the main speaker and other Republican candidates.

Park Service claims corps slows land acquisition

Record Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The director of the National Park Service has told a House Appropriations Subcommittee that the slow-down in land acquisition for the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area is due to the slowness with which the Army Corps of Engineers is purchasing land there.

He also said that he would discuss the matter with the Corps, in an attempt to expedite the land acquisition process.

In closed sessions earlier this year, George B. Hartzog Jr. told members of the Subcommittee that the Corps, which buys land for the dam, the lake and the adjacent recreation area, is holding back on its purchases in order to synchronize the acquisition of land to be flooded and land for recreation uses. He said that this was being done for economy reasons.

Transcripts of the hearings were made public Thursday.

Under questioning by Rep. Joseph M. McDade (R-Pa.) Hartzog first denied that the Park Service was "slackening off" in its activity in this area, then admitted that this was exactly what was happening. This year, the Park Service is asking for $5.5 million for the recreation area. Last year their appropriation was $9.5 million. In both cases, the funds are earmarked for land acquisition.

Park Service spokesmen told McDade and other members of the Subcommittee that $4.1 million of last year's appropriation for the recreation area has not yet been spent.

Hartzog said that, with the appropriation for fiscal 1969 and what is left over from the 1968 appropriation, the Corps would have nearly $9 million to spend on land acquisition for recreation uses in the next fiscal year. The Corps also purchases land which will be under water as a result of the dam.

They are asking for $4 million in fiscal 1969, most of which would go for this land acquisition.

"They are carrying on the total acquisition program in the interests of economy, having one agency buy it," explained Hartzog. "What we are trying to do is get the flow of money to the Corps synchronized, so when they buy a piece of recreation land, and they need the flood land in front of it, they buy the whole tract and neither of us have to pay severance damage on what is left." He said that this "buying in tandem" was a means of avoiding further escalation of the price from buying recreation land without purchasing the title to the submerged land at the same time. As a result the Corps would have to pay severance damages.

Philip O. Stewart, Chief of the Service's Division of Land and Water Rights, said that recreation land, starting five miles below the dam site, has already been acquired as well as areas on the perimeter of the park. This, he said, had taken the steam out of land speculation there.

At a later hearing, Hartzog told the Subcommittee that the Park Service expects the Delaware Water Gap to be the most heavily visited park in the system when it has been fully developed. He estimated that 10 million people would come to the park in the course of a year.

"It is within one day's drive of 16 million people, New York-Philadelphia area," he said. "There are 30 million people within a 100-mile radius."

In line with this, the chairman of the Subcommittee, Rep. Julia B. Hansen (D-Wash.), said that she would like to see the park service move more rapidly on parks and recreation areas in heavily populated parts of the country and slow down in less densely populated areas.

She used the Delaware Water Gap as an example of an area that was vitally important for recreation purposes because of the large population nearby.

McDade mused aloud that, although the escalation of land prices had lessened and the potential for use of the park had grown, the Park Service and the Corps seemed to be slowing down on the project.

In answer to this, Hartzog admitted that McDade's assessment of the situation was accurate and agreed that the Corps was not acquiring land rapidly enough. He said it was "regrettable."

"We are going to talk to the Corps and see if there isn't some way in which we can expedite the land acquisition details of the program," he told Reps. Hansen and McDade.

"I frankly have to say to you that I don't know the details of the program, but I am going to look into it and if it can be expedited we are going to expedite it.

"I was up there," he continued, "and it has fantastic potential. It sits, just like Indiana dunes, as a gem right in the midst of a tremendous population. And these people are the people who are really desperately in need of some opportunity to get into the out-of-doors."

In other hearings before the Subcommittee, McDade asked representatives of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation's Land and Water Conservation Fund about a public works appropriation subcommittee report that states that costs are exceeding benefits on the Tocks Island Reservoir project. Lawrence N. Stevens, Associate Director of the Fund, said that he did not believe that rising costs were due to escalating land prices.

Edward C. Crafts, Director of the Bureau, said that, from the standpoint of the park, land acquisition at Tocks Island was "under control." He testified that land costs were no longer spiraling as they had been.

Crafts said that the two areas where land price escalation had been greatest had already been acquired.

NL may try to catch up in expansion derby today

CHICAGO (AP)—The National League, left at the post by the American League, may try to catch up in baseball's expansion derby at a meeting of club owners Friday.

It could be a lively session, depending on deliberations Thursday in a preliminary session involving the NL's three-member expansion committee and Warren Giles, league president.

Giles several days ago said there would be no major action or final decisions at the full owner meeting. He said the owners would consider a starting date for a 12-club lineup and set guidelines for five cities seeking two new franchises.

At the winter baseball meetings in Mexico City, the NL fixed 1971 as the latest date for expansion, but some owners now are reported concerned over the American League's head start with a 12-club lineup approved for 1969.

Seeking the two NL franchises are Dallas-Fort Worth, San Diego, Milwaukee, Montreal and Buffalo.

Owner Roy Hofheinz of the Houston Astros, an expansion committee member agreed with Giles that awarding of franchises was unlikely at Friday's owner meeting.

Hofheinz, represented as taking a dim view of a Dallas-Fort Worth franchise as a territorial rival of his Astros, generally was uncommittal on the possible trend of the meeting.

"In all probability the expansion committee will make some recommendation to the owners' meeting, but nobody has any sort of an agenda or modus operandi," Hofheinz said.

"I don't believe there will be any screening of franchise candidates. On the expansion starting date, the motion passed at Mexico City was that if not be later than 1971 and that's where it stands unless modified."

Other expansion committee members are Walter O'Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who also has a potential territorial rival with San Diego's bid, and John Galbreath of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The NL owners could be prodded into more action than Giles and Hofheinz concede by the fact the American League has a meeting here next Thursday.

That session may produce a two-division plan for the 12-club setup in 1969 when Seattle and Kansas City become new members. That would entail a championship playoff which would overshadow the final week.

Braves win in 9th; Joe Torre 'beaned'

ATLANTA (AP) — Felipe Alou's second home run of the game gave Atlanta a 5-3 comeback victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday night

The Braves were trailing 3-2 with two out in the ninth when Sandy Valdespino singled. Pinch hitter Mike Lum tripled the tying run across and then rode home on Alou's shot off reliever Pete Mikkelsen.

It may have been a costly victory for the Braves. Star catcher accounted for Atlanta's pitch in the head in the eighth inning and left the field bleeding. He was taken to a hospital for X-rays.

Adolfo Phillips' two-run homer in the seventh inning had given the Cubs a 3-1 lead but Alou's first homer trimmed the Chicago lead to one run in the eighth.

Clete Boyer's fifth inning homer accounted for Atlanta's first run. It was the 500th run batted in of Boyer's major league career.

Redlegs win in 12th on Rose's double

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose, whose eighth-inning homer tied the game, doubled in a run in the 12th, giving Cincinnati a 4-3 victory over St. Louis Thursday night.

Leo Cardenas started the final rally with a single off Larry Jaster, who came in for starter Ray Washburn in the ninth. Cardenas went to second on Chico Ruiz' single to left.

Rose then delivered a double to left center, scoring Cardenas with the winning run.

The shot into the rightfield bleachers was the Reds' fourth hit since the third inning when they touched Washburn for two runs.

Cardenas beat out a slow bouncer, was sacrificed to second and scored on a single by Alex Johnson who moved to second on a throw to the plate. Vada Pinson tapped the ball in front of the plate and was safe at first as catcher John Edwards threw high and Johnson scored from second on the play.

Buckhorns bow 1-0 to N. Pocono

MOSCOW — North Pocono scored a run in the first inning without the aid of the hit and made it stand, Thursday, as it downed Wallenpaupack, 1-0.

The winners' run came on a walk, passed ball, wild pitch and error. North Pocono was held to one hit by Bill Schmalzle and Clinton DeGroat, an infield single with two out in the sixth.

The Buckhorns had only one threat when they put two runners on in the sixth. But a successful pickoff attempt killed the rally.

3 card 68s in Champions Tournament

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Two veteran golfers, Gardner Dickinson and Dan Sikes, and young Kermit Zarley, chipped three strokes off par with 68's Thursday to lead the way through a cold, windy first round of the $150,000 Tournament of Champions.

The 40-year-old Dickinson and Zarley, who is 26, shot 35-33 and Sikes, 37, did it in 33-35 as the select field of 25 pros played the 6,708-yard, par 36-35—71 Stardust Country Club course.

The wind, occasionally gusty when the first players teed off at noon, grew in velocity up to 20 miles per hour.

Billy Casper, the favorite, with 37-33; Masters champion Bob Goalby, 35-35; Julius Boros, 35-35; Don January, 37-33; and Randy Glover, who capped his 34-36 round with an 30-foot eagle three on the 540-yard 18th hole were all tied at 70.

Sikes birdied four of the first five holes but observed, "I didn't play that well. I was lucky."

"Cold? Man, I'm freezing," said the slender Dickinson as he left the 18th green.

Dire trouble beset Frank Beard who led from start to finish in winning this tournament a year ago.

Senators stop Twins' streak

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Washington catcher Bill Bryan picked Rod Carew off third base with two out and the bases loaded in the ninth inning, preserving the Senators' 7-6 victory over Minnesota and ending the Twins' six-game unbeaten streak.

The Twins had already scored one run in the ninth when pinch-hitter Jim Holt faced reliever Dave Baldwin.

Carew had moved about 30 feet from third base in a bluff toward home when Baldwin stepped off the mound and threw to Bryan on the third base side of the plate. The catcher fired to third baseman Ken McMullen and Carew was tagged out as he dived back to the bag.

The Senators battered Dean Chance, who was seeking his third victory of the young season, and reliever Bob Miller in the fifth. They paraded 11 men to the plate before Jim Roland got the third out.

Rookie Del Unser launched the outburst by beating out an infield single when Rod Carew could not pick up his slow bounder. Unser also doubled as the 10th man to bat in the inning for his third hit of the game.

Ken McMullen's double, Frank Howard's ground out and Ron Hansen's single drove in the first three runs to tie the score at 3-3 before Chance departed.

Frank Coggins greeted Miller with a two-run double to left. Then winning pitcher Phil Ortega looped a single to right-center to score Coggins for a 6-3 margin.

The Twins pulled within 6-5 with a pair of runs in the sixth when Ted Uhlaender hit his first home run after Jack Hernandez doubled.

Lunn fires 63 to grab Azalea lead

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Bob Lunn, in his second year on the pro golf tour, blazed an eight-under-par 63 Thursday to take a two-shot lead over Steve Reid in the first round of the $35,000 Azalea Open Tournament.

Lunn, who won the National Public Links title just after finishing high school in 1963, matched a Cape Fear Country Club course record set in 1955 by Bob Toski when the course played to a 72 par. It has been trimmed to a 71 for this year's tournament, measuring 6,575 yards.

Lunn's back nine 28, seven under par, set a course record and was one over the PGA nine-hole record set by Mike Souchak in the 1955 Texas Open.

Heller saves ESSC victory

EAST STROUDSBURG — Reliever Al Heller pitched five innings of one-hit ball Thursday to preserve East Stroudsburg State's 7-3 victory over Wilkes. The win was the first in four "regular" season games for the Warriors.

Heller replaced starter Lou Melucci in the fifth innings and allowed only one hit and an unearned run in gaining the victory.

ESSC, which had lost three straight games after posting a 3-0 mark in the exhibition season, broke open the game in the second inning when it sent 10 batters to the plate and scored six times.

Augie Grant opened the rally by rapping out the first of his three hits, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on Weaver's sacrifice fly.

Tom Moreken followed with his first homer of the season to make it 2-0. Melucci kept the rally going with a single and then Jim Sohns gained a life on an error. After Ron Saddler walked to load the bases, Leo Schnalzer doubled home Melucci and Sohns with Schnalzer taking second on the throw. Catcher Dick Siwak capped the inning with a double good for two more runs.

Grant led ESSC's 12 hit attack with two singles and a double. Siwak, Moreken and Melucci were also two-hit performers for coach Vern Walch.

Drop 6th straight to Boston

Chisox still looking for 1st win

BOSTON (AP) — Jose Santiago pitched a two-hitter and scored the first run of the game on a balk by Gary Peters Thursday as the Boston Red Sox defeated the winless Chicago White Sox 3-0.

It was the sixth straight loss and second shutout in a row for the White Sox.

Santiago held the White Sox hitless for five innings before pitch-hitter Wayne Causey broke the spell with a line single to center leading off the sixth.

Boston scored its first run in the third inning when Santiago walked, went to third on Mike Andrews' single and was waved home when Peters broke his motion while pitching to Carl Yastrezmski for a balk.

The Red Sox picked up their final two runs in the eighth on doubles by Andrews and Joe Foy, a hit batsman, a wild pitch, an intentional walk and George Scott's sacrifice fly.

Yastrzemski fell to the ground, clutching his left arm after being hit by a Peters pitch in the eighth. He was replaced by Jose Tartabull after reaching second on a wild pitch. Yaz's injury was described as not serious.

Knights win second with strong finish

PEN ARGYL — A sweep of the broad jump and a first in the mile relay gave the Pen Argyl High thinclads a 58-47 win over Salisbury Thursday. The Knights are now 2-2.

Pen Argyl trailed with two events left but went ahead by four points after taking all three spots in the broad jump. Actually Pete Snyder of Salisbury had the longest jump but fouled on all three attempts.

The Knights had a four-point lead at the start of the mile relay — the final event — but captured the race by more than 200 yards to gain its second straight win.

Pen Argyl's Steve Lobb won the 220 and finished in a dead heat with the Falcons' Dale Host in the 100.

Mays' 3-run double pins 5-3 loss on Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays walloped a bases-filled double to right field in the seventh inning Thursday that carried the San Francisco Giants to a 5-3 victory over the New York Mets.

Trailing 3-2 with two out in the seventh, the Giants loaded the bases on two singles and a walk off starter Don Cardwell. Danny Frisella was brought in to pitch to Mays, but the slugging outfielder slammed his two-bagger down the right field line and all three runners scored.

The Mets had forged their lead on Art Shamsky's run-producing single in the first inning and Cardwell's two-run homer in the second. It was Cardwell's 16th career home run.

The Mets threatened in the ninth when consecutive singles by Shamsky and Jones put runners on first and third with one out. Frank Linzy relieved starting pitcher Gaylord Perry at this point and retired the next two batters on pop flies.

Mays' seventh-inning double was the 1,116th extra base hit of his career, putting him only one behind Ted Williams on the all-time list.

DETROIT (AP) — Al Kaline, playing his 2,000th major league game, belted one of three Detroit homers and Joe Sparma pitched a seven-hitter as the Tigers defeated Cleveland 5-0 Thursday for their sixth straight victory.

Kaline's blow, a solo shot into the upper right field stands in the fifth, was his first this year and the 305th of his career. It put him one behind Hank Greenberg, the all-time Detroit leader with 306.

Willie Horton, leading off in the second, and Dick McAuliffe, leading off in the fifth, also slammed homers off loser Steve Hargan.

Opening lead—ten of hearts.

Which suit to attack, and when and how to attack it, will often determine the outcome of a hand. Declarer cannot properly make a decision in such a case until after he has weighed all the evidence and selected the course of play most likely to succeed.

South is in three notrump and West leads a heart. Declarer follows low from dummy and wins with the king. What should he do next?

There are several ways to play the hand. South can begin by cashing three rounds of diamonds, and if he finds the suit divided 3-3, he coasts home with ten tricks. Or if he finds the diamonds divided 4-2 with East having the four, he can safely give East a diamond trick to establish his own ninth trick.

But if declarer learns that West started with four diamonds, he may find himself in a peck of trouble. To establish the extra diamond trick he needs at this point he would have to put West on lead, and this could prove fatal if it developed that East had the heart length and strength.

Alternatively, South can start by attacking spades immediately — for example, by leading the ace and another spade. However, this method of play is subject to the danger just mentioned—West may take the leas and return a heart.

The proper play, all factors considered, is to lead a low diamond at trick two and finesse the ten. This play guarantees the contract whenever West has the Jack and also whenever West has either two, three or four diamonds of any description.

For practical purposes, the first round diamond finesse assures the contract. It loses only when West has a singleton low diamond or East has the singleton jack, and wins in all other cases.

On the actual hand, the diamond finesse results in making ten tricks, while any other method of play may lead to defeat.

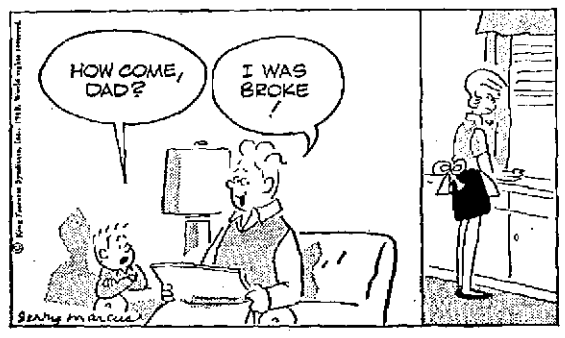
TRUDY



Your Horoscope
By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Work at your tasks in a competent manner. In spare time, develop your latent talents. Planetary aspects emphasize a need for close attention to routine matters.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Well-chosen words, meticulously executed deeds will register. You are shaping future results NOW, so be rightly concerned about your course of action. Concentrate on what you do best.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Think twice before committing yourself to extra obligations. Are they reasonable? Will they produce substantial results? Think! Controlled enthusiasm will be essential to a well-organized day.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—You can advance through association with those who can increase your knowledge and stimulate your talents. Forthright and steadfast aims and endeavor will lead to an enviable success.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Be alert to good offerings. Your aptitude lends itself to this type of day. Gather information as you progress. Study, diversify your interests, broaden your horizons.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—A fine outlook. Avoid the unconventional, hasty or erratic, however. You have real opportunity to achieve; don't spoil it through sporadic effort or lack of "follow through."

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—A time for conjuring up something new, bolstering your enthusiasm, anything to advance your status. If you strive conscientiously, you can attain the ultimate in rewards.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—An appropriate time for reconnaissance. Make sure of all procedures. You don't want to start out on the wrong foot. Heed precedents and experiences of others for enlightenment.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Jupiter's aspect, mildly favorable, stimulates ambition and the "get-up" to ride over rough spots with less commotion, more ease. Avoid dissenters, trouble-makers.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—You cannot afford to take wild chances, but neither should you be hesitant, timid, unsure. Somewhere in between is the sensible, intelligent road. YOU can find it!

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—A judicious pruning, careful editing of your schedule will help you attain the most this day. Immediate problems are the ones on which to concentrate.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Concentrate on "musts" now, taking each in proper turn and managing them thoughtfully. You can make progress if vigilant.

YOU BORN TODAY are often brilliant in launching and handling undertakings inspired by your own initiative, but you may not always understand the methods of others at first. Once you study them, however, you can not only follow ably, but can improve upon procedures. You have a natural leaning for higher learning, are imaginative, persevering and extremely ambitious. The Arien is often inclined to be overly aggressive, however, and should learn to control this trait since it antagonizes others — frequently the very ones whose good will is important to him. Care!

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 4-19

Dr. James W. Dunlop

Penn State Blue Band in concert

STROUDSBURG — Dr. James W. Dunlop will conduct a concert by the Penn State Blue Band at Stroudsburg Area High School on Monday, April 29, at 8 P.M.

Dr. Dunlop was recently cited by Pennsylvania State University for excellence in teaching, the last in a long series of honors earned since his graduation from Mansfield State College.

In addition to his regular leadership of the Penn State Blue Band, he is well-known as a festival conductor of high school and university musical organizations throughout the Eastern United States.

Two years ago, Dunlop conducted the All-State High School Band Festival in Wilkes-Barre, where more than 40 Monroe County young people performed under his direction.

The Blue Band Concert at Stroudsburg High School will present the entire group of 100 university musicians, many of them graduate students, performing a widely-varied program of enjoyable concert music.

The concert is being sponsored by the Stroudsburg Music Parents Assn.

Indian child adopted by Dr. Smith

NORWALK, CONN.—Dr. Marjorie Smith of Spring Lake, East Stroudsburg RD 3, is sponsoring Vernon, an eight-year-old American Indian boy from the Chippewa Tribe of Red Lake, Minn., through the Save the Children Federation, Norwalk, Conn.

The sponsorship will provide the clothing, school supplies, personal books and spending money which will enable the child to take part in school activities. The average Indian child leaves school before the eighth grade, often for lack of these bare essentials.

Part of the sponsorship contribution will be pooled for self-help projects to which the Indians contribute all the labor for health clinics, libraries, community centers and kindergartens where English is taught to five year olds before they enter first grade to help combat the language barrier.

12 thoroughbreds perish in fire

HAZEL PARK, Mich. (AP) — Twelve thoroughbred race horses and a pony perished in a fire which destroyed a barn valued at $100,000 Thursday night at Hazel Park track in this Detroit suburb.

The horses belonged to Peter W. Salmen Jr., of nearby Lathrup Village. Salmen was quoted as valuing one at $69,000, but an estimate on his total loss was not immediately available.

NEW YORK — Noel Behn (he wrote the nifty "Kremlin Letter" spy novel) will wed actress Lee Barry . . . Evelyn Hardy, Ziegfeld Girl wife of former Gay 90's owner Bill Hardy, is in Memorial Hospital for surgery . . . TV-film star Horace McMahon's in St. Raphael's Hospital, New Haven, having a plastic artery inserted to counteract high blood pressure . . .

Fine jazz pianist George Shearing carries a card noting "In case of emergency, I am an honorary Negro, signed, Soul Brother Joe Williams" (Joe's the Negro blues moaner) . . . Bandleader (and longtime Jan Garber associate) Little Freddy Large died.

Joe Pine's abject abuse of a homosexual on his Channel Five vulgarity was the lowest barrel-scrape we've watched in all our years of reviewing television . . . Among other disgraceful phrases, Pyne called him a chicken pox on the face of humanity.

The high-chic set keep bottles of favorite rare wines tagged and dated in the cellars of "21"; socialite Denniston Slater wins points for a more inverted chic: he stores in "21" bottles of his favorite (Hellman's) mayonnaise (Dennie doesn't appreciate the fine fresh French mayonnaise "21" serves) . . . Asked how she like the new "Directoire" nightclub, Anne (Mrs. Dennie) Slater also passed her chic-test: "It has the most DIVINE powder room!"

You can get iced tea at any Schrafft's in town except the one at 88th & Madison — where apologetic waitresses, in of course, Irish brogues tell you "Sorry, not until May." . . . Reminds us of Beirut, Lebanon, where we checked into the St. Geroge Hotel on a beastly-hot day; calling down to ask if someone could turn on the air conditioning, the operator said, "June 15th."

There was Art Carney in red shirt and proud protruding tummy at Third Ave. & 72nd St., ambling with his pert bride . . . In Allen's Third Ave. celebrity hangout, the whole cast of the rehearsing "Private Lives" were looking not at all like their Noel Coward-play-people; Elaine Stritch featuring a Phyllis Diller hair fringe, Lee Bowman in Hollywood-casuals, Betsy von Furstenberg's aristocratic demeanor undimmed by worn sneakers, slacks and a fur-fringed coat; their director Charles Nelson Reilly featuring matching orange sox and shoes.

True story: Manhattan playboy who fancies his way with the ladies wooed a famous beauty on the French Riviera. It was a beauty-beast tale for the lad despite receding hairline is covered with hair and for some reasons prizes it. Using all his cliches, lad whispered his tacties into her pink ear until she whispered would he like her to rub him with "sun tan oil." Gadzooks yes, said airy ape so lass larrups gook all over lad already counting his triumphs. He also prizes himself a sporty diver off the high board and before leaving the beach shows off his graceful prowess. Wading back in to the object of his attentions, hero rubs hands on chest, discovers them full of fuzz from chest.

Punchline: bored beauty had flopped on blobs of depilatory cream used by gals for removing leg hair hair. Bye!

Biggest campaign in decades to win an Oscar for "Bonnie and Clyde" was so huge it backfired . . . The songstress insisted her Copacabana contract include her billing as "Miss Peggy Lee" . . .

Remember what happened when Warners tried to institutionalize the dignity of a great and thereafter falling star by billing him as "Mr. Paul Muni"?

Some commercials are more delightful than the shows they interrupt so gaily: Wall Street's Shearson and Hammil's for instance, music so smartly composed, orchestrated, and performed, suddenly you sense it's better than what's being presented in this season's Broadway musicals; thus folks who never even get to a Broadway musical are hearing smarter music on television in traditionally resented huckstering.
